Their purpose is to make a positive impact on society by supporting individuals and ventures who create social benefit. They state that they do this in three ways: through social innovation, through social finance and through workspace and enterprise support. They provide support that helps the development of businesses who re-invest their profits in the business or community to further social and/or environmental causes. As a charitable society they also work with partners to deliver and grow the social investment market and make a social profit by creating opportunities to raise investment from individual and corporate investors for organisations delivering social benefit. Membership and benefits are fully available to the general public. They state that their “ideation”, innovation and incubation programmes will also help Peterborough residents who are looking at starting their own social/environmental ventures and will give special consideration to female entrepreneurs and the city’s migrant population who are less well catered for in terms of business support. Through their programmes they aim to improve access to skills, knowledge and finance for innovation within the city, indirectly creating jobs and attracting new businesses into the city. The rateable value of the original assessment has now been reviewed by the Valuation Office Agency and split into various assessments thus making Allia liable for 13 individual assessments. Recommendation that 20% discretionary relief is granted in this case.

They state that they do this in three ways: through social innovation, through social finance and through workspace and enterprise support. They provide support that helps the development of businesses who re-invest their profits in the business or community to further social and/or environmental causes. As a charitable society they also work with partners to deliver and grow the social investment market and make a social profit by creating opportunities to raise investment from individual and corporate investors for organisations delivering social benefit. Membership and benefits are fully available to the general public. They state that their “ideation”, innovation and incubation programmes will also help Peterborough residents who are looking at starting their own social/environmental ventures and will give special consideration to female entrepreneurs and the city’s migrant population who are less well catered for in terms of business support. Through their programmes they aim to improve access to skills, knowledge and finance for innovation within the city, indirectly creating jobs and attracting new businesses into the city. The rateable value of the original assessment has now been reviewed by the Valuation Office Agency and split into various assessments thus making Allia liable for 13 individual assessments. Recommendation that 20% discretionary relief is granted in this case.

Eastern Angles' mission is to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - provide high quality theatre - maintain and promote a regional identity - tour to theatre, non-theatre and community venues - develop and produce new and original work - explore our regional heritage towards understand the past and future - achieve renown In 2008 we were asked to extend our reach to Peterborough to improve the cultural offer of the city and engage with hard to reach communities. Our work in Peterborough has focused directly on the city's sense of place, in order to help it find its identity, take pride in its unique heritage, and encourage community cohesion and promoting citizenship. We have done this through creating plays with a specific Peterborough feel and content, and then touring them to over 50 different venues and attracting a wide range of audiences through diverse casting, choice of material and performance style. A recent Arts Council capital grant to acquire new LED lighting, pole and drape black curtaining, and other equipment, has allowed us to convert a new venue, The Undercroft into a pop-up theatre. All our activities are open to all sections of the community. In fact we deliberately target our work to those communities who have a low engagement with the arts. Our reserves currently allow us to fund new projects and reflect the recent capital grant above. We occasionally run a bar at performances, but this is purely to provide refreshments for the event and provide good customer service. The 100% relief will allow us to make our activities grow and include even wider sections of the community to participate both as performers and as audiences. Recommendation that 20% discretionary relief is granted in this case.

It is also expected that any volunteer or trainee will, after gaining a mixture of life skills and actual broadcast experience, improve their prospects of future employment through the training and skills they will acquire. One of the most important features of the project is that it will run an ‘academy’ for members of the community to learn together many of the skills which the experienced staff and trained volunteers will be able to pass on. The radio project is now based in an ideal location at the very heart of a residential community in the Herlington centre. This converted shop not only being the base for Radio Peterborough's output, will focus on the training academy project and become a local studio centre for and can be utilised by a number of community and performance art groups. This has also presented all concerned with a great opportunity to invest in and regenerate what is seen by many as a rundown area. Recommendation that 100% discretionary relief is granted in this case.
